6. Cost Basis Method

Elect a cost basis depletion method for accounts that are tax reportable ("1099-B eligible accounts"). The method chosen will be used for all depleting transactions, unless you request a different method at the time of the transaction. The term "deplete" will be defined as a redemption, transfer of assets, exchange or fee transaction throughout this form. Cost basis elections cannot be changed for transactions that have settled in your account. You are responsible for complying with the IRS rules governing these elections. Review this section carefully and discuss it with your tax advisor before completing. If you do not choose a method, Fidelity will apply its default method. Fidelity's default method for mutual funds is Average Cost.

Check one.

The method you choose will apply to all current and subsequent positions held in this account unless we are otherwise instructed.

- AC (Average Cost) Share price for each lot is averaged into one price per share. Shares are then depleted from the account using the FIFO order. The average cost of noncovered shares will be calculated and maintained separately from the average cost of covered shares (shares acquired on or after 1/1/2012). Changes to and from this method must be submitted in writing. If a depletion of shares has previously occurred, changes from this method are prospective only.
- FIFO (First In First Out) Shares with the oldest purchase date are the first to be depleted.
- HICO (High Cost) Shares with the highest purchase price are the first to be depleted.
- LIFO (Last In First Out) Shares with the most recent purchase date are the first to be depleted.
- LOCO (Low Cost) Shares with the lowest purchase price are the first to be depleted.
- TXSN (Tax Sensitive) We estimate the amount of taxable gain or loss for each share in your account. Shares with an estimated loss are depleted first (from highest loss to lowest loss), followed by shares with an estimated gain (from lowest gain to highest gain).

IRS regulations require cost basis reporting on shares acquired after January 1, 2012. Cost basis of shares acquired prior to the regulation effective date will be reported to our shareholders if available, but will not be reported to the IRS.

An important note regarding Signature Guarantees:

You should verify with the institution that they are an acceptable (eligible) guarantor prior to signing. A signature guarantee may be executed by any "eligible guarantor." Eligible guarantors include Commercial Banks, Trust Companies, Savings Associations, and Credit Unions as defined by the Federal Deposit Insurance Act. Also included are member firms of a domestic stock exchange.

A Notary Public cannot provide a Signature Guarantee.

We cannot accept a notarization instead of a Signature Guarantee.

Overnight Check Fee: A fee may be applied if you request a redemption check to be sent using Fidelity's overnight delivery service. This is applicable for both retirement and nonretirement mutual fund accounts.

To help the government fight money laundering and the funding of terrorism, federal law requires us to obtain your name, date of birth, address, and a government-issued ID number before opening your account, and to verify the information. In certain circumstances, we may obtain and verify comparable information for any person authorized to make transactions in an account or beneficial owners of certain accounts. Further documentation is required for certain entities, such as trusts, estates, corporations, partnerships, and other organizations. Your account may be restricted or closed if we cannot obtain and verify this information. We will not be responsible for any losses or damages (including, but not limited to, lost opportunities) that may result if your account is restricted or closed.
